ALFRED WILKINSON

TLLS OF THE BREAKING OFF OF HIS ENGAGEMENT.

WHICH IS THE DAY'S SENSATION.

s Winnie Davis in Bad Health, and o Will Not Marry.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., October 13 .- [Specia.1]-The engagement of Miss Winnie Davis, the daughter of the confederacy, to Alfred Wilkinson, of this city, which was announced about six months ago, and which created so much interest in all sections of the country, will not result in a marriage.

The first authortative statement of this fact was made today by Mr. Wilkinson in person, to the press of Syracuse.

The first intimation received here that the engagement was broken came from New Orleans about a week ago, and then it was simply a report. At that time Mr. Wilkinson and members of his family would neither affirm or deny the report.

THE REASONS ADVANCED.

Various reasons were advanced as to the rupture between Miss Davis and Mr. Wilkinson, the chief being that it was the young lady's desire that the engagement be broken on account of Mr. Wilkinson's financial prospects. The burning of the fine old homestead in July was referred to as a loss of much moment. This was considered by the majority as a great injustice to Miss Davis, and Mr. Wilkinson's statement to your correspondent today, goes to show as much. THE REAL REASON.

The gent'eman said that he was much averse to making any statement, but such conflicting reports were being sent out that he deemed it only justice to Miss Davis, to say that the engagement was broken at her request, and that it was on account of her ill

It seems from his statement that Miss Davis has not been in good health for some time, and she went abroad for the purpose of recruiting her strength. Her trip was beneficial, but did not restore her fully to health 1 Her mother and her intimate friends felt that, t under the circumstances, it would be best that sthe prospective marriage should be annulled, and this step was reluctantly taken by Miss

OTHER VIEWS HELD. There are friends of Mr. Wilkinson in who are still of the opinion that the recent reverses of his family, his moderate income tland the still more recent burning of the old estead, had some weight in shaping Miss

There is general regret here that the match will not take place, inasmuch as it would have been one of the most remarkable and mantic on record. Mr. Wilkinson conducts himself admirably under the ordeal.

The people of the north had looked forward to the consummation of the nuptials of Miss Davis and Mr. Wilkinson with a great deal of interest and pleasure, and the ani om the young gentleman's own lips that the vedding will not take place, causes expres ions of regret on all sides.

A FOOLISH OPINION.

It is claimed, whether believed or not, by ome that the engagement has been broken of account of a strong influence brought to bear by prominent southern gentlemen who have looked towards Miss Davis being wed to a gentleman of their section of the country. Mr. Wilkinson believes that there is no foundation for this, and says that he has the assurance from Beauvoir that the end of this fondest hope is entirely on account of Miss

THE FINANCIAL QUESTION. The statement made that some time ago a prominent gentleman of this city received a equest from the south for information concerning Mr. Wilkinson, is verified. The failure of the Wilkinson banking house was particularly inquired into. This was thought by some to be quite significant at the time, but now it is not thought to have had anything to do with weddings ever celebrated on this continent.

Mr. Wilkinson has the condolence of this en tire community, regardless of political affiliations or sympathy, for the north or the south in years gone by. The Truth of the Matter.

NEW ORLEANS, October 13.—[Special.]—It has been known for several days past that the engagement between Miss Winnie Davis, the daughter of the confederacy, and Mr. Alfred Wilkinson, of Syracuse, has been broken off. Mr. Wilkinson himself called at Beauvoir, the homestead of the Davises, a few days ago, and left the same day, although he came prepared to stay for some time.

It is understood that the cause of his de parture was the breaking off of the engagement by Miss Davis. Mr. Wilkinson, although evidently much affected, has refused to speak on the subject since his return

MRS. DAVIS WILL NOT TALK. An attempt to get a full explanation of the matter from the Davis family, has been equally unsatisfactory. When it was broached to Mrs. and Miss Davis, they both protested that it was a private matter, upon which they did not care to say anything.

A friend, a relative of the Davis family, informed your correspondent that it was altogether due to Miss Winnie's health, and no other cause. The story that the rupture had occurred in consequence of a change in the financial condition of Mr. Wilkinson was hood and a malicious statement, with the slightest basis of truth, and was repudiated by friends and relatives.

ILL HEALTH THE ONLY REASON.

The only cause was Miss Winnie's health.

She had gone to Europe the past summer under the hopes hat she would improve, but there had been no improvement, and her condition had lately some so precarious that, under the circumstances, marriage was altogether out of the question. Mrs. Davis recognized the sit-uation, and acted promptly, bringing the engagement to an end. The rupture was due to her, as she asserted that her daughter's health prohibited any idea of a marriage for the present, and she thought the engagement ought to be broken off. Miss Winnie accepted

MISS WINNIE DAVIS. her mother's decision and the engagement was, therefore dissolved

More Sections of It.

JACKSON, Miss., October 13.—The constitutional convention today disposed of section 3, of the judiciary report by adopting the following, proposed by Colonel Muldrow:
The supreme court shall have no jurisdiction but such as properly belongs to the supreme court, and no judgment or decree injany chancery or circuit court rendered ma civil case shall be reversed or annulled on the ground of a want of jurisdiction to render said decree arising from error or mistake of court as to whether the cause in which it was rendered was of equity or common law jurisdiction, but if the supreme court shall find error in the proceedings, other than as to jurisdiction, then it shall be necessary to remand the case. The supreme court may remand it to that court which can best determine the controversy.

The convention then adopted a section de-claring that the term of judges of the supreme court shall be nine years, the office of one of them to become vacant every three years, no person to be eligible unless thirty years old and five years an attorney and a cit-zen of the state, vacancies to be filled by ap-nointment.

The legislature shall divide the state into chancery and circuit districts, judges to be ap-pointed by the government with consent of the senate and to hold office four years. No person shall be eligible to appointment unless twentysix years old and a practicing attorney and a citizen of the state for five years.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., October 13.—[Special.] Lewis Avant and Miss Della Adair, the eloping couple from Georgia, are still at the cityprison. They employed an attorney today, who sued out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Greene of the criminal court. Before the case was called Chief Connolly, of Atlanta, had telegraphed to hold the couple and Judge Greene postponed the hearing of the case until tomorrow. Miss Adair says today she will not return home unless Avant is released. She still insists that he is in no way to blame for her elopement. Avant now admits he had been paying attention to the young lady for three months and did not tell her he was married until last Friday. Then he says she insisted on going with him anyway. Avant is growing very uneasy.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, October 13.—Cotton futures opened six to seven points decline, closing steady at four to five points decline from Saturday's.closing prices. Liverpool hit our bulls very hard this morning. The decline of 2-64 in that market; was quite unexpected, even by the bears and at the first call the bulls seemed to have hardly a horn left. A sharp decline was the consequence. Then came reports of cold weather in the southwest which might mean early frost. Rains fell rather heavily at one or two points and official predictions seems to indicate another period of bad picking weather; hence some demand to cover contracts and the recovery of two or three points; but it did not hold and values again fell off just before the close. Futures at New Orleans declined and at some of the southern markets quotations i were reduced $1-162% cent. Spot cotton again weak and fairly active for home consumption.

THE DEATH OF JUSTICE MILLER. rounded By His Family and Friends the Judge Breathes His Last—A Short Sketch of the Deceased

WASHINGTON, October 13. - Justice Miller, of WASHINGTON, October 13.—Justice Miller, or the United States supreme court, died at 10:50 o'clock tonight. He had been unconscious since Friday nig t, and since Saturday his death had been expected at any moment. He surprised his physicians by the remarkable vitality he displayed. He was born in Richmond, Ky., in 1816, and was graduated from the university of Transylvania. After study-ing and practicing medicine for a few years, be turned h s attention to law, in which he made progress. In 1848 he began to differ from his mighbors on the slavery question, and his views in favor of negro emancipation caused him, in 1850, to remove emancipation caused him, in 1850, to remove from Kentucky to Iows, where he became one of the leaders of the republican party, declining all offices, however. In 1862 President Lincoln appointed him justice of the supreme caurt, and he had served on the bench ever since, taking rank with the foremost jurists at a constitutional expounder. The Llaughter cases are his last known opinions. Personally, he was popular wherever known. He was of large, sturdy constitution, a good liver, democratic in manners and good-humored. Many thought he would get the chief justiceshij when Waite and Fuller were appointed. appointed.

He leaves a widow, a grown son and two grown daughters. When the end was seen to be at hand, the family, besides Mrs. Miller and her son, Irvine, there were present Dr. Cook, J. W. Woolworth, an old friend of Justice Miller, who had instantiated from Cook of the family of the cook. who had just arrived from Omaha; the family servants and Chief Clerk McKenny, of the

Soon after death the face of the justice, which had become somwhat drawn during the last day of his illness, changed to a perfect natural condition, and he looked as if in a natural condition, and he looked as if in a quiet sleep.

No arrangements for the funeral will be made until tomorrow, but it is certain that his remains will be removed to his home, at Keokuk, Ia., where they will be interred in the family burying ground.

Tomorrow the supreme court will meet as usual at 12 o'clock, and after the announcement of the death of Associate Justice Miller by Chief Justice Fuller, the court will adjourn. The justices will then consult with Mrs. Miller as to the time of burial and funeral arrangements.

DEATH OF GENERAL BELKNAP. The Ex-Secretary of War Found Dead in WASHINGTON, October 13 .- General W. W. Belknap, secretary of war under President Grant's administration, wa found dead in his bed about 9 o'clock this morning. It is be-lieved that death occurred between 1 o'clock Saturday night and 9 o'clock Sunday morning. From John W. Cameron, General Belknap's business associate, it is learned that for som business associate, it is learned that for some time it has been the general's habit to meet a few friends at the home of Dr. Hill, who lives less than a square away, for a social game of cards. Last Saturday night he was with them as usual and temained until nearly midnight, when he returned to his apartments in the Evans bulking, at 1,420 New York avenue and presumally retired immediately. He was never again seen alive. A bout 8:30 o'clock this morning Mr. Cameeron arrived at the building and taking the mail for himself and the general from the box on the first floor proceeded to the second where their office and the general's apartments are located.

A SERVANT GIRL GIVES THE ALARM. He separated the general's mail from his own which he began reading, then the servant girl who keeps the room in order rapped at the door and inquired if General Belknap was out of the city, saying that she had several times since Sunday morning tried the doors but found them locked.

found them locked.

Mr. Cameron, startled at what the girl had said, immediately tried the doors himself, but they were locked. The janitor was summoned, and bringing a step-ladder looked through the transom over the door leading from the public hall into the general's sitting room. He could see the general's hat on a table and his coat and vest upon a chair standing near. The step-ladder was then placed against the door leading into his bedroom. The bed was then seen, and the general, lying partly uncorred, on it. His left arm was bent rigidly towards his head, and his left hand tightly clutched as though death had come while he was in convulsions.

The bedelettes were somewhat the transfer as if there had been a slight struggle for breath. A physician was summoned, who, after make brief examination, expressed the opinion that death had resulted from a stroke of apopleny. MRS. BELKNAP SUMMONED.

The coroner soon arrived and took the lody in charge and an autopsy will be held later. Mrs. Belknap, who has been at Newport and other seaside resorts during the sur months, but in New York city during the ast few weeks, was summoned by telegraph, and also the generals' son, Hugh, from his home in Chicago, where he is employed in the office of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Compan, For some years past, General Belknap has been an almost constant sufferer from gout, and in February last he had so severe an attack that he hardly left his room for three months or more. During that time he lost in flesh between thirty and forty pounds, and since then he has been in poor health. In consequence of his long illness his business has suffered, and this has worried him at times. Mr. Cameron lasts aw the general at months, but in New York city during the list at times. Mr. Cameron last saw the general at about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He had been talking of his business and seemed somewhat depressed, but before Mr. Cameron left him he had, in a measure, regained his Laal

Lisbon, October 13.-Conflicting report have been received here regarding the situa-tion of affairs at the mouth of the Zambezi river. One of the reports alleges that one of the British stern-wheel gunboats attempted t pass up the river, to prevent which the Portuguese gunboats had been anchored across the mouth of the river with instructions to passively resist the passage of British vessels and that she ran down and sank one of the Por tuguese warships. The News Confirmed.

The Times's Lisbon correspondent says a telegram from Mozambique reports that a British force of 800 penetrated to Manica and that two gunboats have entered Zambezi river. This news has removed all reluctance on the part of the ministers to assist Senar Sousa, who had visited the king on Saturday night to decline the task of forming a new cabinet. Thus the crisis is ended. The papers abuse England with greater violence than ever.

The governor of Mozambique, in a dispatch datad the 11th instant, confirms the report of the entry of British gunboats into the Zambezi river. The Portuguese protested against the advance of the British fleet.

London, October 13.—A four-story building on Middle street, occupied by Rowley & Brock, hats, caps and helmet manufacturers and government contractors for military headgear, was destroyed by fire this afternoon. Six persons were burned to death and thirteen seriously injured. The premises occupied a frontage of thirty feet on Middle street and the same frontage on Clothfair, and extended thence fifty feet to Newburylstreet, where was situated the entrance used by the people who worked in the building. The fire broke out at 10 o'clock in the workshops on the upper floor. There were thirty persons in the building. Two minutes after the fire was discovered, the whole building was a mass of flames. The spread of the fire was or rapid that the work people found every avenue of escape, except the windows, cut off. Through these some of the employes jumped to the ground. Five women employed by the firm were killed by jumping from the windows. Lives by Jumping from Windows.

Dublin, October 13.—The case of the crown against Dillon and O'Brien, and ten other defendants, was resumed before the stipendiary magistrates, Irwin and Shannon, at Tipperary today. John Edgar O'Mahony, one of the defendants whose absence from the court because of sickness has been the cause of several tilts, was not able to be present, and medical evidence was submitted to show that he could not appear for several days, and that even then the excitement might cause a recurrence of his illness. Crown Prosecutor Ronan closely questioned the doctor as to the cause of the sickness. The counsel for the defense denounced the questions as horrible and barbarous. Mr. Ronan then insisted on adjournment because of Mr. O'Mahony's absence, and the court granted the motion, against the protests of defendants' counsel. of O'Mahony's Illness.

The fossilized support ane the quasi-dramatical ability of Lillian Lewis combined was a serious contusion for sensitive nerves. Miss Lewis a not strong enough in the stellar role so save the general interpretation from aggregated defects. The patrons of the house looked upon the most emotional scenes with but little feeling. Although Miss Lewis has given considerable attention to the preserving of a pure diction, her voice does not allow of an extensive range. Mr. W. A. Whitecar, who takes the part of Philippe Rameau, lover and hero of the play, is totally without stage presence. His attempts at dramatical portrayal of emotion remained sterile of good result. Some of his efforts in love scenes succeeded in trapping the risibilities of the hard-tried andlence. Miss Lewis seldom rises to the excellence of an artist. The playing is labored and somewhat queered by excessive display of gestures. Only once did she seem to realize that her aim was to give an artistic interpretation of her role. It is not betraying a state secret to as that Miss Lewis's voice is a matter of the past. The play of "Credit Lorraine" is not without superior merit. But these views of the society of Paris in the old regime must be interpreted with snap and vigor to allow of a keen appreciation of their dramatic value. This play would undoubtedly be a grand success if superbly mounted and played by a strong cast.

taly—Probability of a Lynching.

Montgomery, Ala., October 13.—[Special.]
News has just been received here of a shooting affair between Sam Johnston and John Williams, on the plantation of Dr. R. S. Williams, near Mt. Meigs, in this county. Sam Johnston returned to his home and found John Williams there, he having called at the house to see a negro woman who took refuge from him in Johnston's home. When Johnston arrived, the woman appealed to him for protection against Williams, and Johnson, turning to Williams. ordered him off the place. After some further words, Williams pulled his pistol and shot Johnson. As soon as Williams fired the fatal shot he left the vicinity, and up to this time has managed to evade capture, though nearly all the negroes living in the neighborhood of the shooting have joined in pursuit of the fugitive. If caught he may be lynched.

The Cause of the Complication, and the Amount of Money Involved—The Receivership, Etc., Etc.

MACON, Ga., October 13 .- [Special.]-The failure of the Empire Lumber Company has been the talk today in financial circles. THE CONSTITUTION has learned the following additional particulars of the collapse:

A MEETING OF THE CREDITORS There was a meeting of the creditors in Chattanooga on last Saturday.

At this meeting, it seems, there were present representatives of the different banks, together with other large creditors.

Mr. J. C. Anderson appeared before the meeting, and was requested to give an idea of the liabilities and assets of the company. He stated that the assets were at least $700,000, with liabilities between $400,000 and $500,000. The creditors then appointed a con consisting of the presidents of the First, Third and People's National banks, to secure attorneys and send to the mill at Empire and Sydney, Ala., to investigate and report the exact state of affairs. It was developed at the meeting that the mortgage of $104,000 given to R. A. Anderson, a brother of J. C. Anderson, was to secure him for certain notes of the Indianapolis Car Company. The car company gave its notes to the Empire company, which the Empire com pany had discounted at the Chattanooga banks with their endorsement, and the endorsement of R. A. Anderson. The Empire company did not give mortgages to R. A. Anderson until the notes of the car company were protested, and then the Empire company only desired to protect its endors

The Empire mills had been furnishing the car company with about $15,000 worth of lumber per month, for which they accepted the notes of the car company. They were unable to carry these notes and discounted them at the banks, by having them endorsed by R. A. Anderson.

Additional mortgages of $20,000 also rests on the Empire mills. These mortgages are to Hill & Harris, of Macon, for $5,000, and to William Heath, of Atlanta, who was in the employ of the mills at Empire, and who had endorsed for the company. The amount due Heath is said to be about $35,000.

The mortgage given to Hill & Harris is for services rendered as general counsel for the

OTHER POINTS.

THE CONSTITUTION learns that the only Macon firms to whom the concern is indebted are: S. Waxelbaum & Son, $3,700; Ham Adams & Co., about $2,000; Exchange bank. $2,500; A. Gibian & Co., about $3,500. Besides these, there are firms who have accepted a number of small drafts given by the concern.

but these will amount to comparatively little.

The failure was brought to a head by an attachment served by Waxelbaum & Co. on the property at Empire last Friday. It is generally understood that the Macon creditors are protected. It is said that an Albany bank is also a creditor

On Saturday Mr. J. W. Hightower, the secretary and treasurer and general manager of the company, was appointed temporary re-ceiver by Judge D. M. Roberts, at Eastman. Mr. Hightower is a most excellent man in every respect, and is thoroughly conversant with the business.

THE CONSTITUTION is informed today, how ever, that Lawyer Turner, representing Macon creditors, went to Twiggs court and had Judge Roberts to revoke the appointment of Mr. Hightower and appoint Mr. Peacock temporeceiver instead.

It is thought by some that the company will able to straighten out affairs and resume The fact that the assets of the company are widely scattered made it impossible to realize in time to meet maturing notes and other

As an evidence of the faith of creditors in the company, it can be stated that a certain banker to whom the company is indebted, offered to loan it $10,000, if that amount of ready cash could tide the company over in

Colonel Milard is president, and the works had a manufacturing capacity in ex-cess of thirty cars per day, and until recently was supposed to be doing a remunerative busi-ness.

"The company claims that the receivership move is no fault of the management, but rather an entailed liability, growing out of the financial embarrassment of the Empire Lumber Company, of Chattanooga, Tenn., with whom the Indianapolis company had large dealings, and which had hypothecated $180,000 of car-works paper with the Chattanooga banks."

Not one word from Captain Perkerson has been used in answering any of the slanders against the old ticket, and I admire him for it. PEDDLER KELLY

BRINGS TWO ATHENS MEN INTO

Charging Them with Highway Robbery-The Statements of Both Parties— A Probable Fight.

ATHENS, Ga., October 13.-[Special.]-Athens had somewhat of a sensation today in the shape of two warrants sworn out against Captain R. H. Lampkin and Mr. R. L. Reaves, charging them with highway robbery. The prosecutor is J. D. Kelly, a peddler. It created quite a stir here, and the commitment trial was watched with interest. Highway robbery is a serious charge, and it had been made against two citizens of Athens by a stranger who was peddling here. At the trial this afternoon before Justice Fuller, the evidence was given in and the warrants discharged.

WHAT KELLY SAYS He said he came here and put up at Captain Lampkin's hotel. Thursday night he counted oney, which amounted to $140. He took off his coat, and started to go to bed. Here Reaves and Lampkin entered the room, caught hold of him and demanded his money. He gave it up, when they threatened to kill him. He ran from the house and told a police-man he had been robbed. The policeman told him to swear out a warrant. He went to the Commercial, obtained lodging and didn't come out again until Saturday, being afraid to do so. He then swore out the warrants which formed the basis of the case, before Justice Fuller today.

Kelly's statement was as follows:

LAMPKIN AND REAVES TALK. The statement of Messrs. Reaves and Lampkin is as follows: Kelly came to Lampkin's and put up for three days. He peddled watches and spectacles. He swapped a brass watch to a Mr. Doyle for a gold-plated one. Doyle came down from Kelly's room and said he had been cheated. Mr. Reaves went back with him and secured the watch which Doyle had swapped Kelly. They then came back. During the day Kelly carried several men to his room and created a disturbance. Lampkin went up to his room and told him he was tired of such conduct, and for him to get out. He told Lampkin he didn't have any money. Lampkin told him he knew he did have money, for he had seen it. Kelly asked Lampkin to search him. Lampkin refused to search him, and Reaves, in the presence of a Mr. Peeler, searched him. He found $2.40 on his person. This Kelly paid to Lampkin. Kelly then told Lampkin he had no money to get board with, and Lampkin gave him back a dollar. Kelly said to Lampkin: "Keep my pack and I will pay you." Lampkin went and locked up the pack. He examined it in the presence of Mr. Coleman, and found $40 in it, which he returned to Kelly afterwards. Kelly went up the street and was met by Policeman Hayes, who says that at that time Kelly was in a beastly state of intox

AN OLD OFFENDER.

Mr. C. B. Veronell states that he turned Kelly out of his house a few years since for the same cause. The warrants were discharged by Justice Fuller, and the matter assumes another shape.

at Walker Street Methodist church last even-His subject was "The Use of Being Knocked

Dr. Lee applied his subject: 1. To the making of nations. On the two great rivers of the east, the Euphrates and Nile, the most brilliant civilizations of ancient times were built up. These rivers flowed through and fertilized the These rivers flowed through and fertilized the fairest portions of the globe. The people gained wealth without effort. It was gathered from the spontaneous productions of the earth. They were subjected to no knock downs in getting it. Hence they did not hold it long, and gained no valuable acquisitions to character in the process of getting it. They soon died of inanity and corrupt luxury. They left no valuable literature and art to posterity. There was a little strip of mountainous country situated between these great rivers, into which Abraham moved with his family and dependents to build a civilization. The means of subsistence were hard to get. The soil was harren and unpromising. Therefore the peo-

There was a three stary country situated between these great rivers, into which Abraham moved with his family and dependents to build a civilization. The means of subsistence were hard to get. The soil was barren and unpromising. Therefore the people had to put thought and effort into the soil to make it respond with fruits and food.

What the soil lacked in fertility they supplied by persistence and greater effort. The result was they secured all the grapes and honey and corn they needed, besides intellectual and moral strength, which made them the greatest nation of ancient times. The Jews left law and poetry and literature that continue in our day to bless mankind. They were in captivity first by one nation and then by another; they were subjected to all kinds of privations and oppressions. Thus amid hard and forbidding conditions they wrought out a civilization that will bless mankind forever. Their knockdowns only served to bring out the enduring and noble elements of character, so wonderfully displayed in Moses and Isaiah.

Another nation, coming up about the same time, produced also a great civilization. As in the case of Judea, Greece had none of the easy conditions of life found in Egypt and Babylon. But in spite of hard conditions they lifted themselves into leadership in all thatis great in literature, emobling in statemanship, and exquisite in art.

In modern times there are two nations in Europe, one at the source of the Rhine and the other at its mouth, Switzerland and Holland, which illustrates the value of severe conditions in making a people great. Switzerland today has a hardy, brave and cultivated people, who have made themselves rith and independent inspite of mountains and ice. They buy our cotton, pay freight on it across the sea, pay a high tariff on it and still undersell our own mills.

Holland, at the mouth of the Rhine, is a great nation, about one-fourth the size of Georgia in area, but with a population of 4,000,000 people. They started with nothing but so much soil for cultivation.

One of the Jurors Declares that There Is No Murder in Killing a Negro-News of Interest from Branham's City, BRUNSWICK, Ga., October 13.-[Special.]-The sensation of the town is the developments in the murder of the negro Frank Elsey by Charles Ventress, white, Saturday night. Reports have it that as soon as the cor was empaneled they adjourned to the salo near the store where the shooting occurred, and, locking themselves in, proceeded to get gloriously full. In fact, some were too full to hold the inquest, so they adjourned.

The negro was then buried without an inquest being held.

The question now is, can Ventress be arrested for murder when no jury has declared him guilty of crime. One officer is quoted as saying that Ventress cannot now be arrested for murder. One juror, who was full, is reported to have declared that no man is guilty of murder who kills a negro. The town is worked up over the matter.

Mr. Lincoln was of a peculiarly sympathetic entire political career. They would not seem, at first glance, to be efficient aids to political at 11st glance, to be emclent and to pointent success; but in the peculiar emergency which Lincoln, in the providence of God, was called to meet, no vessel of common clay could possibly have become the "chosen of the Lord."

Those acquainted with him from boyhood knew that early griefs tinged his whole life with sadness. His partner in the grocery business at Salem, was "Uncle" Billy Green, of Tallula, Ill., who used at night, when the customers were few, to hold the grammar while Lincoln recited his lessons.

It was to his sympathetic ear Lincoln told tomers were few, to hold the grammar while Lincoln recited his lessons.

It was to his sympathetic ear Lincoln told the story or his love for sweet Ann Rutledge; and he, in return offered what comfort he could when poor Ann died, and Lincoln's great heart nearly broke.

"After Ann died," says "Uncle" Billy, "on stormy nights, when the wind blew the rain against the roof, Abe would set thar in the grocery, his elbows on his knees, his face in his hands, and the tears runnin' through his fingers. I hated to see him feel bad, an' I'd say, 'Abe don't cry,' an' he'd look up an' say 'I can't help it, Bill, the rain's a fallin' on her."

There are many who can sympathize with this overpowering grief, as they think of a lost loved one, when "the rain's a fallin' on her."

What adds poignancy to the grief sometimes is the thought that the lost one might have been saved.

The sensation materialized on the trial of a case against Policeman Herry Abbott, charged with conduct unbecoming an officer and violating the discipline of the force.

Some time ago Policeman Abbott was suspended for five days by the board. During the term of his suspension he, at the request of Solicitor O'Bryan, of the city court, swore out a number of accessions against a number of accessions and a number of accessions against a number of accessions and a number of accessions and a number of accessions against a number of accessions and a number of accessio

Hurt, who appeared before the board to show the urgent necessity for the action which

Previous to Mr. Hurt's appearance, Solicton O'Bryan gave his testimony. He said he had gotten Policeman Abbott to swear out the ccusations because he could not get Chief Connolly or other officers of the force to do the work. He had been approached by citizens and appealed to, to have the portion of the city referred to, rid of the objectionable characters on numerous occasions, and in reference to these appeals he had tried to get the police to make accusations, and had failed. When he failed to get Chief Connolly to take a hand in the matter, Solicitor O'Bryan said he concluded to go it alone. Accordingly he called in Officer Abbott, and the accusations were sworn out and prosecuted. He stated that, in his opinion, the officer had done work which he ought to be commended for. and, as for himself, he declared he would continue on the same course until the residence portion of the city, in the Edgewood avenue vicinity where it was most complained of, was entirely freed from the evil houses and evildoers who infested it, and asked the police commission and the police department to give him their assistance and he would break un the nuisance.

Mr. Joel Hurt then made a strong appeal to the commissioners on behalf of Edgewood avenue, upo which street his company had already spant $400,000. He said, as Foster street it has been bad enough, but as Edgewood avenee, up to a month ago, it had been exceeding, obnoxious to the people who were compelled to traverse it either afoot or on the

Mr. Hurt said that the respectable residents along the street and on adjacent streets felt outraged at the way their appeals had been treated by the authorities. Since he had appealed to Solicitor O'Bryan, he had noticed a great many of these houses bearing "for rent" signs. He said he had several times seen Cnief Connolly on the subject, and had also presented a regular petition, specifying cer-tain places and persons, and signed by residents and property owners. This communication had failed, he said, as had other steps that had been taken. He then went to Solicitor O'Bryan and he thought the course he had pursued had accomplished much in the right direction.

Mr. Hurt referred to the many people who daily travel through Edgewood avenue, both residents and others seeking investments, and said that to his certain knowledge great damge had been done by the presence of the dis-seputable people who had gathered in the neighborhood.

They retired to their room at 9:20 o'clock. n five minutes afterwards a pen and ink ere carried them by the bailiff. So they must not have been but a few minutes in making a verdict. Solicitor General Hill had gone for a few minutes to the Kimball. Colonel Fry had left for Chattanooga when the jury retired. Colonell Ellis had stepped out. So it devolved on Clerk F. M. Myers to receive the verdict. A hum of conversation was going on all over the room during the temporary recess.

Ozburn was conversing with his counsel. His wife and mother were sitting in silent

"The jury is ready to come in," announced the bailiff.

In an instant a hush fell upon the throng, and all eyes were fixed upon the little door in the corner, through which the jurors slowly filed and took their Ozburn fixed his piercing black eyes on them, and began to stroke his hair first with the right, and then with the left hand, in an intensely nervous manner. His lips were closely drawn, and his whole air was that of a man in terrible mental agony.

Then came the fatal verdict, and as Clerk Myers read it aloud, there was a something very like "amen" in the long drawn breath of relief from 200 or 300 roats at the word "guilty!"

"We wish to poll the jury," said Colonel

This was done, and as one by one the twelve men's names were called they uttered their verbal endorsement to the finding of the jury. The court then dismissed the jury, thanking them and wishing them Godspeed to their homes. The officers were instructed to take the prisoner to jail. But so eager was the curiosity of many spectators, that they crowded around and had to be twice ordered to disperse.

Bidding a fond adieu to his wife and mother, to other relatives and his counsel, Ozburn left the room with the officers.

Proceedings of the Day. The report of the trial of Charles M. Ozburn was fully given in Sunday's Constitution, and the report was read with much interest. Seldom has a case attracted more attention than this, and the public has been very much interested in the fate of the slayer of Bradley, as both men were prominent in business circles

The courtroom was crowded before 9 o'clock, the hour of opening court, yesterday morning. Judge Marshall Clarke took up half an hour calling the civil jury, after which he an-nounced that he would preside in the civil branch in the chambers apartments, leaving the courtroom to Judge Richard H.

It looked as though it had been virtually conceded that the contest in the Ozburn case would be a determined one, as the witnesses, and jurors in other criminal cases were dised until Wednesday. The sequel showed they miscalculated the length of the trial how they miscalculated

The Ozburn jury evidently spent a quiet and restful Sunday, as the members all looked re-freshed and ready for the work before them.

The prisoner remained in earnest consultation with his attorneys for some moments and then resumed his seat beside his wife and mother, both of whom were in their places at the opening of court.

Ozburn looked considerably fatigued, and not having had a shave in several days added to his worn appearance.

TO BREAK DOWN TESTIMONY. The first thing done by the counsel for the state was to renew the effort to break down the testimony of Mrs. Gussie Immer, nee Scott, whose statements under oath were so much at variance with the testimony of a number of other witnesses.

Mr. Black was recalled and reiterated his statement, that immediately after the first shot was fired Bradley came out making toward Whitehall street, and that Ozburn stood in the door firing at the retreating man, who stag-gered and fell near the corner of the store. He said that there were five or six shots fired.

Mrs. Immer's testimony, delivered on Saturday last, was in effect that Ozburn came out of the store first, backing from Bradley, who followed with his right hand uplifted in a striking position; and that there were but two shots fired.

At this stage of the proceedings the state

At this stage of the proceedings the state rested.

In a few moments Colonel Hulsey announced that the defense would also rest.

The court then remarked that while no limit would be put upon the attorneys in their addresses to the jury, the court hoped they would not spin it out to an unnecessary length.

Colonel George T. Fry opened the argument would not spin it out to an unnecessary length.

Colonel George T. Fry opened the argument for the state in a most forcible speech, founded on the different statutes bearing on the charges embodied in the indictment.

After Colonel Fry came the turn for the defense, and Mr. C. T. Ladson led with one of the finest efforts of his life. His appeal for his client was strong and eloquent and covered the ground in a masterly mannet.

Colonel W. D. Ellis followed for the state, and his was a powerful arraignment of the defendant. His speech was listened to with a great deal of interest by the audience.

Colonel W. H. Hulsey closed for the defense, and seldom has there been a more eloquent argument or a more touching appeal from the lips of an attorney in Fulton county.

NIGHT SCENES.

from the lips of an attorney in Fulton county.

NIGHT SCENES.

The shadows were deepening when Colonel Hulsey concluded, and the court took a recess until 7 o'clock.

At that hour there was scarce standing room in the court, and the gallery was filled with attentive and expectant faces. There were not less than 500 people present.

Solictor General Charles D. Hill was to close the argument. For that reason hundreds of people left their quiet homes to be present at the culmination of this great trial. Amid the sea of faces on the right were the sad, sweet face of the young wife, the care-worn brow and sorrowful eyes of the aged mother.

Amid the sea of faces to the left was the face of the widow, obscured by the dark veil of her widowhood, and around her the little fatherless ones too young to understand the fateful proceedings that were transpiring around them.

The prisoner showed the effects of the strain.

The prisoner showed the effects of the strain of anxiety and suspense to which he had been subjected for nearly a week.

It needed not the rap of the court bailiff to call the courtroom to order.

call the courtroom to order.

A hush fell on the assemblage of men, women and even children, who had come to hear the final arraignment.

"Is Mr. Hill in court?" asked Judge Richard

'Yes, sir," answered the solicitor, and arose "Xes, sir," answered the solicitor, and arose to begin his address to the jury.

And then, with one or two prefatory remarks,
Solicitor Hill began, in a calm and dispassionate manner, one of the most forcible speeches of his life.

of his life.

THE CLOSING SCENES.

Taking up the witnesses, one by one, he made a clear analysis of the evidence. Then turning his attention to the defendant's counsel, he dissected their speeches one by one, and delivered many a keen thrust and cutting blow at his opponents.

For nearly two hours he held the attention of the audience to a striking degree and his of the audience to a striking degree and his

So soon as he took his seat there was a general buzz all over the room, like a great sigh of relief after some trying ordeal.

in the case, called for a copy of the code, and so soon as silence was restored, began his charge to the jury.

His definition of murder was very clear, and he took occasion to explain that "malice need not have existed for a considerable time previous to the killing. But if that malice existed for one moment before the killing it comes under the definition of legal malce."

The court was equally careful in explaining and defining other crimes of a less grave nature, where human life has been taken.

With much painstaking and at considerable length, the court explained what must be considered as evidence, and as to what constitutes a reasonable doubt in cases where there is any uncertainty in the minds of the jurors.

The fact that the prisoner is allowed to make his own statement, and that it is not evidence, was explained, with the fact that such statement may or may not be given any torce by the jury.

It took fifteen minutes to deliver the charge, and then the jury retired, at 9:20 o'clock.

and then the jury retired, at 9:20 o'clock.

Will Be Sentenced Today. The result of their half hour's deliberations

Ozburn will probably receive the sentence of the court today.

Counsel for the defense will prepare a motion for a new trial, and it is said that one ground on which they will base it is that the court failed to define the crime of manslaughter.

The trial is over, and Ozburn occupies his old cell in Fulton county jail. The case was ably prosecuted and ably and conscientiously defended.

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 14, 1890.

Decorate! Decorate!

Decorate today!

There is no time to lose. Let the Gate City put on her holiday attire.

During our two last expositions Atlanta, with her flaunting flags and gay bunting, was the most picturesque city In America. Our visitors were charmed, delighed and dazzled, and went home to sing our praises.

Begin early this morning and decorate every business house and public building, and the residences along the streets leading to the Piedmont exposition.

Let us have a gorgeous flurry of banners and bunting. Atlanta must look her prettiest during the coming fortnight.

The Danger in South Carolina. Every man, woman and child in the south is interested in the situation in South Carolina. It is both a threat and a peril. It is a menace to the peace and prosperity of that state. Its promises of evil are such that if a remedy is not speedily found, the very men who are now engaged in making issues of their partisan prejudices will cry out against the ruin they have wrought.

The nomination of Judge Haskell for governor by the so-called straighout democrats precipitates a condition of affairs that ought not to be tolerated by the white people of South Carolina. They have it in their power now to smother the desperation of the reckless white men who seek to make the negro the political arbiter of the state, but if they propose to move in the matter they will have to move quickly.

What is the platform on which Judge Haskell proposes to run? What is the point-the meaning of his campaign? What is the issue on which he proposes to hopelessly divide the democratic party and hand the balance of power over to the negroes? Why, simply prejudice. The whole movement is based on the fact that there are a number of honest, but very reckless politicians in South Carolina who resent Tillman and Tillman's candidacy in a personal way, and are determined to cry havoc and then loose the dogs of war rather than support him. Rather than submit to the will of a majority of the democratic party as expressed at the polls, they are willing to turn the state government over to the control of the negroes.

It is the old cry, of which we heard so much during the summer-anything to beat Tillman, who is the choice of an erwhelming majority of the white people of South Carolina. So long as Tillman represents a majority of the people of South Carolina, there can be no objection to him, but the so-called straightouts who have nominated Judge Haskell propose to make issues of their personal prejudices. They propose not only to set the will of the people at defiance, but they are willing to see the state turned over to the negroes rather than that Tillman shall be made governor.

The people themselves seem to appre ciate the situation, but our dispatches from Columbia hint that those who are supporting Haskell are not at all averse to organizing anarchy in South Carolina. They have ceased to be democrats, and seem to be determined to ruin the party rather than submit to the majority.

As we have said, this matter interests the whole south. Independentism in South Carolina means ruin, and the man or set of men willing to be held responsible for it must be desperate indeed. It means political and industrial ruin, and opens wide the door to the very evils which the white people of the south have been seeking to avoid. In South Carolina, of all the southern states, it means the collapse of the white party and a breaking down of all barriers.

It is not too late for Judge Haskell to withdraw and save his state. It is not too late for the white men who are acting with him to recover from their frenzy and pool their prejudices for the good of the democratic party. There is nothing ahead of the independent movement in South Carolina but disgrace and dis-

A Prescher in Politics.

The case of the Rev. Dr. Kelley, the Nashville preacher who resigned his pastorate to become a candidate for governor or the prohibition ticket, is attracting considerable attention.

In and out of church circles there is a disposition to judge the doctor harshly, and it quite likely that he will be made to suffer for his conduct in more ways than one.

Perhaps the Nashville preacher's offence as been unduly magnified. Once a preacher uld not hold office in many of the states, but of late years it has been a commo ing to see ministers of the gospel on the stump, in the legislature, in congress, and occasionally in the governor's chair. It may be that this is all wrong, but it will strike many people that it is unjust to single out one offender as a victim, and hold him as a warning example, while hundre us are allowed to go their way filling pulpits and political offices whenever it suits their pleasure. Let us apply the same rule in all cases of this kind. If Dr. Kelley deserves censure and punishment for going actively into politics, it should not be forgotten that there are other clerical politicians in the same boat with him.

& While we cling to the old-fashioned belief that preachers should stick to their own proper field of work, we are not prepared to pass an extreme and sweeping judgment. But we would measure them by the same yardstick. If one political parson is to be placed under the ban we should treat the others with equal severity. It is unfair to draw the line at Dr. Kelley. He is neither better nor worse than other ministers who are traveling the same road.

A Funeral Festival.

It is the habit of our esteemed republican exchanges to complain that the negroes in the south are not progressing as fast as they ought to. The south seems to be in the field of vision and has the prominence of a beautiful and shining target to be fired at by all sorts of guns, philosophical, social and political.

The organs are inclined to smile when they are told that the southern negro is getting along very rapidly in all directions. They have an idea that he is trampled on by vast armies of bulldozers and flattened out by a sort of re-enslaving process which invites him away from the polls early and

THE CONSTITUTION maintains, however, that the colored brother is making rapid strides in a good many directions. We have alluded to the social sensation that is created when a wandering brother returns from the chain-gang, the cake-walks for his benefit, and the other social attentions of which he is usually the recipient. These matters are somehow left out of Dr. Mayo's lectures and addresses, but they all go to show a gradual broadening of views and a temper that looks toward the substantial things of life.

We have other evidence that ought to be put on record as showing the advance towards thrift that the colored brother is making. The following, which is in the shape of a hand bill or dodger, comes to us from a neighboring town:

BALL AND FESTIVAL On Monday Evening, October 13th,

For the purpose of completing the payment of the funeral expenses of the son of Louisa Payne.

Refreshments of all kinds will be on hand. rofessor Green's String Band will be in Attendance.

Admission: Single person, 15 cents; lady and entleman, 25 cents.

Committee: Louisa Payne and others.

This is quite charactertistic of the tre mendous upheaval that is going on in colored circles. Many of our republican exchanges will be inclined to ridicule this pathetic circular. We take pleasure in stating, however, that it is the sort of Eli movement that gets there.

The festival was to occur last night, and we have no doubt that the dancing to the voluptuous music of Professor Green's string band was fast and furious, and that the affair was a great social success.

Is the Census a Fraud?

The New York World's charges of fraud in connection with the census returns are so positively made that a reenumeration will doubtless be ordered in many localities, and some of the officials concerned may have to stand an investi-

It is alleged that a congressman and two leading politicians in Brooklyn, besides half a dozen clerks in the census office, are mixed up in this fraud upon the people, and it is claimed that other when the facts are brought to light.

Briefly summarized, The World's charge are as follows: In order to retain a republican congressional majority the leaders of the dominant party induced certain unscrupulous officials to defraud many states out of their lawful congressional representation. In a secret office in Washington a number of trusted clerks were set to work to alter the true census returns, by scaling down or increasing totals so as to make dishonest reports of the growth of democratic states. One result of this conspiracy was to scale down the population of New York city 133,-

000 ! But the worst part of the story is to come. An order was given to an official in the census office, with or without the approval of high authorities, to reduce the true census of New York state 300,-

It was also a part of the scheme to take the state of New Hampshire, which has lost population, and change the returns so that its present congressional representation shall not be decreased. Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Maine and Minnesota were ordered to be "very liberally counted." It was ordered that the southern states should be scaled down to the extent of from 14 to 16 per cent where the growth was largest.

This fraudulent work was decided upon in June. The men engaged in it became alarmed, and to avoid discovery removed their office from Washington to Balti-Enough evidence exists, it is claimed, to discredit the whole census, independent of the exposures in New York city. The names of many of the conspirators have been obtained, and the matter will not be allowed to rest until it has been thoroughly sifted. If these charges are true, even in part, crime almost without a parallel has been committed against the states, the people and the republic. For months there has been an uneasy feeling in many quarters of the union that the census returns had been tampered with. In some instances such vigorous protests were made that re-counts were ordered. So far from subsiding, public suspicion has been fanned into a flame during the past few weeks, and the whole census work is now regarded with distrust. It may be that these rumors of fraud have only a slight foundation, but force and fraud have been such active governmental factors under the present administration that even the most conservative are disposed to believe that where there is so much smoke there must be some fire. The investigation, already begun in an anofficial way, should proceed. The rising south cannot afford to be robbed of her rightful representation in congress for the benefit of the republican states in the north and west. Let us get at the whole truth. If any officials in the census office, or in any department of the government, are guilty of these charges they should be exposed, disgraced and punished. The people of this country have submitted to many wrongs from the party in power, but they will never submit to a fraudulent census!

Don't Forget the Bonds! The intense interest felt in the race of the candidates for the county offices will bring out a large vote today. One thing should not be forgotten. In the city at, or near, the same polling places; but in separate boxes, ballots will be cast for or against the waterworks bonds.

At the last election the apathy of our citizens caused a question to be raised about the necessary two-thirds vote. Today there will be no difficulty on that score. Every citizen knows that our present water supply is inadequate, and we must issue the proposed $250,000 thirtyyear 4 per cent bonds to remedy the evil. The sale of water will pay the interest on the bonds, so there will be no danger of increased taxation.

Our people are in favor of issuing the bonds, and they should not fail to cast their votes. It will be no trouble for a voter who goes to the polls to vote for a county officers' ticket to turn to another box and put in a ballot for the water bonds.

We must not let this opportunity slip. Manufactories, health, convenience and Atlanta's welfare demand an adequate water supply.

The voters will be out in force today, and now is their time to give the city a boom by making our much-needed water supply a fixed fact.

Don't forget the water bonds when you go to the polls!

Stand by the Nominees.

In a recent interview, Hon. W. J. Northen, the democratic candidate for governor, confirms what THE CONSTITU-TION has said in regard to the attitude of the congressional candidates who have been criticized because they owe their nominations mainly to the support of democrats who are alliancemen.

Mr. Northen is himself the democratic candidate for governor of Georgia, a farmer and an allianceman, and he represents all these harmonious elements out of which a few disgruntled politicians have been trying to create discord for the promotion of their own selfish ends. As to the charges that the alliance has practiced undemocratic methods, Mr. Northen gives them a flat denial. The farmers have merely exercised the right that belongs to every democrat to signify to the party their choice among the candidates. They have recommended and endorsed, and there is nothing undemocratic in this. All the rest has been submitted to the methods and machinery of the party, and to the expressions of the party conventions.

Other democrats, who are not farmers or alliancemen, have a perfect right to protest against the alliance recommendations, or to oppose the candidate: but the time for this protest and opposition is during the contest for the nomination. After the candidate is nominated according to democratic methods and usagesubmitting himself to the action of the democratic convention, the time for protest and opposition is past. He is then a democratic candidate, pledged to democracy in all things.

The democrats of Georgia must stand by the regularly nominated democratic

GORDON'S POSITION

SHARPLY CRITICIZED BY EDITOR BROWN.

Who Declares that the Governor First Kicke the Alliance, Then Discovering Its

Strength Claims to Love It. Editor Brown, of The Southern Alliance Farmer, who has been so prominent in the state campaign, furnishes the following letter: EDITOR CONSTITUTION: Not unmindful of overnor Gordon's ability in writing cards, but onscious of the justice of the position taken by the alliance and its leaders in the pending contest for the senatorship, and owing to my great desire for alliance success and prosperity; I feel it a duty

I owe because of the trusts repesed in me and the honor cenfered on me by the order, to reply thereto as best I can. Stripped of its repetions the governor's card claims:

1. That he is not an enemy of the alliance but is its friend; that he is not the enemy of alliance principles, but that he defends its principles "and order to be a support of the every one of those principles;" that he has always encouraged the alliance; that he has not attacked the salliance leaders, but acted in self-defense when attacked by them; and that he has not changed front in his position towards

 That he is not responsible for the present in tism in Georgia.

3. That he is against the money power.
4. That his character has been attacked.

As to the first proposition— On May 22, 1890, I wrote Governor Gordon asking his approval and endorsement of the Alliance and ts platform.

On May 23d Governor Gordon answered this etter, and the best idea I can give of his reply is to quote the headlines under which it was inserted in the Southern Alliance Farmer, viz: "Indorses—He Hails the Alliance and Its With Delight." In that paper I consistently sup-ported him for United States senator, as its columns will show. (No dark and damning cloud as to who owned its stock or furnished the money to run it then.) Colonel Livingston, in his canvass against Judge Stewart, publicly taxed his opponent with opposing the sub-treasury plan, when Grover Cleveland treasury plan, when Grover Cleveland was for it and John B. Gordon was for it. (No dark oud hanging over Livingston then.) tinued on through Governor Gordon's LaGrange speech, through the defeat of Stewart, Barne Clements and Grimes, and up to the time of his speech in Atlanta during the session of the State Alliance convention. I was prosent and heard that speech, and neither the speech published in THE CONSTITUTION OF The Atlanta Journal correctly reports what Governor Gordon said, al-though I am told he furnished the manuscript speech he said he would not supp the subtreasury plan-"no, not if the subtreasury plan-"no, cost me forty elections." THE CONSTITUTION'S headlines of August 21st are: "Governor Gordon Speaks—He Consquarely Against the Subtreasury," August 22d are: "Governor Gordon's Anti-Sul treasury Speech Was Widely Discussed on All Sides." The Augusta Chronicle's headlines of August 21st are: "Governor Gordon's "No'—He Meets the Issue and Repudiates the Subtreasury;" and the same paper, in its special dispatch fro from which both were printed. In that

But it is useless to multiply, certainly squarely repudiated reasury plan in that subtreasury plan in that speech and the members of the State Alliance convention that speech most of whom heard it on the very next day, unan-imously passed resolutions calling on all alli-ancemen in the next legislature to vote for no man who took that position. They were satisfied with Governor Gordon up to that speech and it grieved many a true allianceman to hear him re-pudiate this "fundamental principle" of their

The record does not stop here, Every enemy of the alliance in the state rallied o Governor Gordon's support and he accepted to Governor Gordon's support and he accepted their i services and the fight opened. The Augusta Chronicle, about the bitterest enemy of the alliance amongst the newspapers in Georgia, on August 22d, in an editorial, headed, "Has Georgia No Leader? She Has," uses the the gordian knot and placed himself squarely the gordian knot and placed himself squarely the gordian knot and placed himself squarely ollowing language: "Governor Gordon has cut against the subtreasury bill. It was a bold, brave declaration and has taken the state by storm. It is just what we expected of Governor Gordon Such a declaration comes with good grace from man like Governor Gordon, who has a stronger personal following than any man in Georgia, and can afford to stand upon the right and ace public clamor and class prejudice. Governor Gordon has condemned the subtreasur system in no uncertain sound. He occasion of the gathering of the state alliance in Atlanta, and in the fierce light which beat upon his high office and upon his candidacy for the senate, he declared that he could not subscribe to the subtreasury scheme even if it cost him forty elections. * * Let the issue be joined, Governor Gordon can stand the test. * * * The fight has been transferred from the congress listricts, where close and secret met prevailed, to the high comitia of the state, where the people are to choose their legislators, and these men in turn instructed to elect a United States senator for a term of six years.

"The issue is squarely joined. It was joined in the state convention when a candidate, friendly to Governor Gordon, was elected permanent chair-

The Macon Telegeaph, Rome Tribune, Savannah News, Brunswick Times, Albany News, Dalton Citizen, and all the papers in Georgia opposed to, and fighting the alliance, re-echoed this sentiment and rushed behind Governor Gordon in his fight on the alliance, although most all of them had opposed him in his last race. In the Macon Tele graph, September 4th, in an editorial headed "Governor Gordon's Speech," there appears the "Governor Gordon's Speech," there appears the following: "In a recent speech at the state capitol, Governor Gordon declared himself squarely against the subtreasury scheme. * * He came out like a man, like a statesman and a patriot, against a wild scheme, which means mischief to the demonstrationarty."

After Governor Gordon had taken a week to After Governor Gordon had taken a week to consider—on August 29th, in his speech near Eatonton—he said, referring to his subtreasury position taken in his Atlanta speech; a "I knew full well that silence on my part meant my unantmous election to the senate, but I could not afford silence with misapprehension;" and, in this speech, he reiterated his opposition to the sub-treasury plan.

So, too, with full knowledge of these publicaso, too, with the anomalog of the state plants. It is not be these papers, neither in this speech nor any other, has he intimated that these, his warmest allies, were misrepresenting him This silence, on the part of a mar who is on record, that he "cannot afford silence with misrepresentation," should be conclusive of his position. This, and much more on the same line, all happened before the election. But things have changed again, and Governor Gordon, in-stead of leaning on the fact that his anti-alliance friend was elected chairman of the state conven-tion, and that his individual strength could whip out the alliance, now sees ONE HUNDRED AND out the annauce, how sees one HUNDRED AND sixty-roun alliancemen elected to the legislature, and that he can't get elected senator without their votes. No wonder the governor is our friend again, and has forgotten that he ever fought the

As to Governor Gordon's plea of self-defense in his attacks on ithe alliance leaders and our paper. If to oppose Governor Gordon for senator in a plain, open way, and that after he had kicked the alliance platform from under himself, is to attack him, then he has been attacked. What had Dr. Macune ever said about him personally to warrant his denouncing Dr. Macune as a "Zebraheaded republican from Illinois," when Macune is a democrat and lives in Texas; or as a "piebald politician who thinks he owns the people," when Dr. Macune is simply upholding the alliance Dr. Macune is simply upholding the alliance standard, and honestly discharging the duties the alliance elected him to do? What occasion was there for the attack by innuendo which Governor Gordon has made all over the state against the southern alliance over the state against the southern aminance farmers?

Governor Gordon started into this campaign on the idea that he was bigger than the alliance and its principles, and that it would belittle his manhood and hurt his pride to get on its platform. But now that he has lest the issue he forgets the fight he made on the alliance and persuades himself he is the best friend it has now, ever had, or ought to do than all its members and leaders put

I submit the record as against the governor and that he has put himself in line and company with our enimies, and that the alliance cannot now support or elect him without throwing away the support or elect him without throwing away the victory it has now and abandoning its principles.

2. Does Governor Gordon mean to say that the alliance is to blame for the prosent independent movement on Georgia? If he does, we take issue with him. The record is against him in this. No allianceman who failed of a nomination ran independent, and no independent meeting in the state endorsed any allianceman. They all sundorsed Governor Gordon and avers independent. endorsed Governor Gordon and every independent that is elected to the legislature will vote for him. Certainly, then the alliance is not charg-able with independentism.

3. Governor Gordon makes the point that he is against the money power. Well, if he is, he ought to show it by supporting the subtreasury plan. I don't doubt Governor Gordon thinks he is against. the money power, but he makes a bad showing when he turns up as president of a corporation with $7,500,000 capital stock, as appeared in his correspondence with Dr. Macune, and which sum, he says, is too small, and will have to be increased.

4. This brings me to the proposition that Governor Gordon ought to be again 4. This Dring, that Governor Gordon ought that Governor Gordon ought elected United States senator, "a place he once resigned," notwithstanding his opposition to the fundamental principles in the alliance platform because he says his character has been attacked the companion of Who attacked his character? I know of no one, but if such there be it is possible it was done in

How can any citizen, in or out of the alliance who respects manhood, reconcile the defiant, dis-interested patriotic role in which Governor Gordon puts himself (before the 164 alliancemen v elected) when he says he won't support the plan not if it costs him forty elections, and that he knew he had only to keep silent in order to be unanimously elected to the senate with his present begging attempt (after 164 alliancemen were elected) to go back to the to the support "of every one of those principles" of the alliance and to secure election by the unfounded appeal that his character is attacked.

The welfare of too many wives and children

the happiness of too many homes and the very lives of too many toiling alliancemen depend upon the proper and successful preventation of our plans for relief, to permit a victory won by the people at the polls, to be thrown away by the election of the very man who led and lost the fight

Ex-Governor Smith, who has been confined to his bed for some days, is improving rapidly, and his physician says he will be out very soon. Speaking of Governor Smith, his name was brought up last night by a prominent gentleman of this city, and in a way that is apt to create something of a political sensation. The Enquirer-Sun was present listening, and gives it straight. The gentleman said: "Governor Smith is a candidate for the United States senate, and will make a formal announcement of the fact in a few days. My information is reliable, and there is no doubt about it. He has had communication from many different sources, from prominent alliancemen and prominent non-alliancemen, urging him to make this race, and the matter has assumed such shape now that he has definitely made up his mind to yield to the pressure. He will publish the announcement over his own signature in the nex few days."

EX-GOVERNOR JAMES M. SMITH FOR THE SENATE.

Wrongs of the Farmers-Their Efforts Are Defended.

COLUMBUS, Ga., October 13 .- [Special.]-Ex-Governor James M. Smith will certainly ounce for the senate in a few days. It is said by his closest friends that he has now in preparation an address, in which he will anounce his candidacy.

The Columbus Enquirer-Sun publishes in alliance, introduced Governor Smith. Among other things, Mr. Thomas said:

The object of the meeting is to hear the counsel and advice of one who, in every station of life has proved himself able and faithful. Admitted to the practice of the law he soon stood at the front, and new bears upon his person wounds received in defense of home and country. After the war he resumed the practice of law in Columbus, Ga., and was the equal of any lawyer at that bar.

When the dark days of reconstruction had settled upon our fair sunny land and it appeared that the last ray of hope was gone, when the noble state of Georgia was amid the breakers and in the hands of her ices—in such an hour the eyes of all good men looked around for some one to take the helm and save the slip of state. James M. Smith was called to take charge, and soon the foes were fugitives from the state, fleeing as from an avenging angel, and the old slip of state anchored once more in the haven of safety.

Another class of cormorants had fastened upon the agricultural interests of our country. It was ascertained that commercial tertilizers would reclaim our worn lands, and many valuable articles were upon the market and doing much good. Imitators and imposters soon flooded the country with spurious brands, and our courts were filled with suits in regard to some, and the good and the bad suffered alike. In such an hour, Governor Smith, recommended the establishment of the agricultural department to regulate these matters. Today it is his grandest achievement, and our court dockets are void of such litigation.

Upon his retiring from the office of governor, the railroad interests were at variance, cutting each other in rates and overriding the rights of the people. The railroad commission was established—but who should preside? All eyes were turned to James M. Smith and he was put at its head. The railroad commission was the thing needed by each and all; and today the railroad commission its enemy and tried to overthrow it, but he held his seat and proved

Replying to the attack on the secret work of the alliance, he said:

Well, these men met together; they had been discussing this thing. They discussed it, they say, in secret. O! they met together and talked about it, they say, in private lodges. O! it was secret; I object to it on that account; it is secret! What do I care if a matter is secret that is right? Great applause.] What was the outcome of it? They met out there at St. Louis and they adopted a declaration of their principles—they had one before—and here I will take occasion to say that I have read their published declaration of principles, and no man can say sught against them unless he is opposed to free, fair democratic government. (Applause.) I have never heard the justice or the truth of it juestioned. But there was one feature they objected to. In weighing these matters, out there, hey said, "We need money. How can we get it? We are obliged to have it or our country goes to uin. This great agricultural interest will go to huin. How can we get it? What can we do?" they agreed upon a bill that should be offered to congress—certainly very democratic. They tended to offer it at the right place, hey said they certainly very democratic. They tended to offer it at the right place, hey sent it on. I can imagine many of those d mossy-back fellows that had been lying there mad feeding upon green pastures and disporting menselves by still waters, for so long a time, daying: "What does this mean?" At all the schemes promulgated upon the face of earth as a relief measure, I think that is the of thest and thinest, except one I will mention of Yr a while. Why, if a man wanted lants of these bonds, he would be obliged to have lants 1,000, and if he didn't have the money he the ain't get the bonds. What use would they be noblem when he had the money? But there they would have it without hunting it. And who is to do this? Not the government, but the farmers. That's the way; build one of these warehouses a mile square, on all sides, and if they stretch it out it is seventy miles long—and that's intensely democratic and constitutional. [Applause.] Why, it is aband. Let us talk about this thing; it is bad enough now, as it is—the cotton business.

BACON'S REPLY

TO A REQUEST FOR HIM TO OFFER FOR THE SENATE.

He Will Not Be a Candidate, but He Gives His Views on the Situation—"This Is the Farmers' Fight."

BLACKSHEAR, Ga., October 13.—[Special.]— Some time ago Dr. H. Lamar Whatley, of n this county, wrote a letter to Major A. O. Bacon, stating that his friends in southwest Georgia would be glad for him to allow the use of his name for the United States Major Bacon has been absent in Mexico for several weeks, and on his return replied to Dr. Whatley's letter. This reply has been obtained by your correspondent. As may be date in the present contest, but he indulges in some very plain talk on the subject.

Major Bacon's Letter.

Major Bacon's letter is as follows: Macon, Ga., October 7.—Dr. Lamar Whatley, Offerman, Pierce County, Georgia. My Dear Sir: Absence from the state for several weeks has prevented an earlier reply to your very kind favor of the 22d ultimo, which was received by me until my return.

I earnestly appreciate the request which you make that I will become a candidate for election to the United States senate, the more election to the United States senate, the more especially as this request comes from one who has not heretofore been my political supporter. While I thank you for this expression of your preference, which, you kindly state, is shared by others, so far as I can now anticipate, I will not be a candidate in the present contest. As has been shown by my past course, I am not indifferent to the honors of office, and in this I am not singular. It is therefore in no spirit of depreciation of the value of such honors that I say that there is much to be desired which they cannot give. To those who intelligently seek it, there is much of happiness as well as of personal prosperity, in the walks and pursuits of private life; while to many of those who find neither contentment nor pecuniary income outside of political office, there are frequently the continued animosities of partisan strife and the beggarly poverty of pertisan strife and the beggarly poverty of per-sonal fortune which far outweigh the value of the prize they win.

Furthermore, there are times when it is

the prize they win.

Furthermore, there are times when it is most becoming to some to abstain from personally pressing their fancied claims for office upon the favor of the public; and among this class I am not reluctant, for the present, at least, to recognize my appropriate place.

With you I share the earnest hope that the man selected to the position of senator may be one prepared by capacity and conviction of purpose to stand in that high place as the champion of the agriculturalists in their present effort to lift from themselves the burdens of unjust federal laws now in force, and to secure the additional legislation which they deem necessary to insure their increased prosperity. No one would contend that the farmer's interest is the only interest to be considered in the selection of a senator. Other interests are entitled to equal consideration. But this time this is the farmers' fight. In this contest all other issues are subordinated, and the single-recognized issue is, whether the man to be selected will, or will not, standin the senate to fight for the farmers, offensively and defensively. ate to fight for the farmers, offensively and defensively, on the line of battle which they themselves have marked out. It is a clean-cut issue, and out. It is a clean-cut issue, and those who are not with them squarely on that line are against them. For those who refuse to stand on the particular line marked out by the farmers, the only escape from the charge of hostility to the relief which they seek, lies in the charge of the state of the charge of the state of the charge of the state of the state in the vainglorious assumption that their wisdom exceeds the combined wisdom in the vainglorious assumption that their wisdom exceeds the combined wisdom of the whole agricultural class, and that they know better what the farmers need than do the farmers themselves.

For 100 years the farmers of Georgia—in the majority in every legislature without exception which has assembled in the state—have elected United States senators on all kinds of increase and in the interests of various classes. ues, and in the interests of various clas and industries. But never once in that time have they put forward and elected a senator purely upon an issue for the particular benefit of the agricultissue for the particular benefit of the agricultural interest. After having borne for a generation the evils of the most iniquitous and discriminating federal legislation, after having looked long and in vain for relief from many conflicting and unsuccessful legislative schemes and devices of others, they have themselves finally formulated and agreed upon a plan which they say and believe will give them the needed relief, and bring increased prosperity to them and to the country. They, with their dependents, constitute a very large majority of the people of Georgia and will be served own much the larger portion of all the property within its limits. The success of their industry is the foundation of all prosperity, and is absolutely vital to the continued existence of every other business in the state. Surely under such oreamstances there can be no more reasonable demand than that which the farmers now make, that the senator to be this time elected, while he will represent the interests of all classes that the senator to be this time elected, while he will represent the interests of all classes, shall be peculiarly and particularly the representative and champion on the floor of the senate of the particular legislation which they have themselves devised, and the enactment of which they demand in their behalf.

It matters little who that man may be, provided he have integrity of clarze er beyond question here or elsewhere; fidelity and constancy of purpose to those who honor him by their choice, and capacity for the high and responsible duties with which by their favor they clothe him.

Weighed in the balance against such an issue the question of the personal political fortune of any one man is as insignificant as is the fate of the vain and gaudy butterfly when compared with the full value of the farmers' crop. The world's progess has never yet stopped on account of the loss of the service of any one man. In the needs of the time there has always been found some one time there has always been found some one able to bend the bow of Achilles. Yours very truly,

A. O. BACON.

AN ARMY OF MEN AT WORK AT THE EXPOSITION GROUNDS.

Beautifully Transformed by Artists-Pawnee Bill and His Indians Are Ready for the Racket-Other Notes

Tomorrow the great exposition of the Piedmont section opens in Atlanta.

And it will be one of the brightest and best days Atlanta ever saw. It will herald the gayest season the south has ever known.

Tomorrow will be Atlanta day. Let every citizen be on the grounds to greet the great throng of visitors, who come as Atlanta's guests to witness the opening ceremonies of the exposition. Let every one who can possiblybe on the grounds go the duty of Atlantians to attend the opening exercises and show to the people that they have entered with a unity of aim and action to make their stay in the Gate City a pleasant one

The programme tomorrow will be a one, and will be entertaining to all. Everything will start off with full life and vigor, and there will not be a drag in the programme from early morning until late at night.

How They Will March. Early tomorrow morning Colonel John Milledge, marshal of the day, will form a grand parade to preceed to Piedmont park. The parade will be made up in the following order, forming on the south side of Marietta street, with the right resting on the corner of Broad and Marietta streets at Tyner's drug-

4. Zouave band.

5. Fourth Battalion Georgia Volunteers, of three companies, to which will be attached the Grady Cadets.

6. The Governor's Horse Guards.

7. Atlanta Artillery.

The carriages containing the officers and directors of the exposition, orator of the day and such others as may be indicated by the authorities of the exposition will be arranged on the south side, of Decatur street, between Feachtree and Pryor, with the leading carriage at Beermann's corner, where they will await the escorting column of military, and will close in behind the artillery as the column marches up Peachtree street.

The different commands will report at the point of rendezvous to Lieutennt L. H. Walker, Fourth Artillery, United States army, who has consented to act as adjutant of the line, and who will form the line. At 10:30 c'clock sharp the troops will move, the infantry in columns of companies, the cavalry in columns of platoon, the artillery in columns of pieces.

This parade will be one of the grandest ever seen in Atlanta. Pawnee Bill's wild west show will have a place in the procession.

The Programme for Tomorrow. The complete programme arranged Wednesday is outlined as follows:

1. Prayer.
2. Mayor J. T. Glenn, as master of ceremonies, will introduce Hon. John Temple Graves and Senator A. H. Colquitt, who will deliver the opening addresses.
3. Mayor John T. Glenn will touch the button to sdt the great engine in motion, thus awakeng the entire grounds with the formal opening of the exposition.

4. At 1 o'clock sharp the wild west show which is the greatest in the world, will take yolica is the greatest and the parachute leaps, by the famous Jewell brothers will take place at 2 o'clock.

6. Pawnee Bill, with the cowboys and Indians, will again appear before the grand stand at 7:30 o'clock p. m.

Attilas' army, worked away in the buildings tents, lunch stands and on the track.

The machinery hall is almost ready with its gaudy displays, and so is the agricultural hall with its attractive indications of the bounteous harvest that is prevailing in the land.

The main building is thick with flashy attractions, such as were never before seen in the halls, and there are scores of oxhibitors yet to get their displays in order. Today will be a busy time on the grounds.

Pawner Bill Talks.

Pawnee Bill Talks.

"I never was so glad to get back to a place in my life," said Pawnee Bill, yesterday, to a Constitution reporter.

"I can just tell you, I am dead stuck on Atlanta, and here I have found the most cordial and open-hearted people generally than anywhere else in the country, and I have seen it from Maine to the Pacific coast, dozens of times over." over."
"Have you brought a good show with you?"

"Have you brought a good show with you?" somebody asked.
"Well, I should blush to murmur," replied the handsome westerner, throwing back his abundant hair with a careless gesture. "Tonight I will have four carloads of horses, Indians, Mexicans and cowboys to come in on the Air-Line railroad, and we will have everything ready for the great show Wednesday. The boys are all in fine spirits and the horses in good trim."

A crowd of Mexican vaqueros were at work yesterday putting down tents for Pawnee Bill's village, and building a picturesque log cabin in the centre of the race tack lawn. Do not fail to see the splendid balloon ascension and the thrilling leap from the clouds with the parcahute, a feature of the Great American Railroad shows, on the corner of W. eat and Jack son streets, two days only, Wednesday and Thursday, October 15th and 16th. Let Atlantians all be on the grounds tomorrow. The military companies are in full training for the drills.

The lunch stand for the benefit of the Confederate Veterans' Associations has put up a sign that will draw the old soldiers. It is called "The Rebel's Restaurant." Mr. J. M. Cox, of Woodville, who, for the past ten years has taken more premiums on cotton at the state fairs and at the Pledmont expositions than any man in the state, is in the city the guest of Mr. J. M. Flake, 115 Pullism street. Mr. Cox has his usual exhibit of field crops out at the exposition.

Mr. M. C. Beebe, representing Owen's Electric Belt Company, of Chicago and St. Louis, arrived in the city yesterday. Mr. Beebe will prepare for the Owen Belt Company one of the most unique exhibits to be seen at the exposition. They have engaged space in the main building and will make an exhibit which will catch the eye of every visitor. An electric bicycle will be run in a twenty-foot circle at the rate of from three to twenty miles per hour to suit the operator. An electric piano, the keys of which are buttons, with bells instead of wires, will also be operated at this exhibit.

In this display the exposition gets a little exposition within itself. Everything will be arranged most artistically in the train of cars.

P. H. Snook, the furniture man—T. C. F. H. I. G., you know—received yesterday 300 handsome souvenirs for newspaper day. The souvenirs are the handsomest of their kind ever received in Atlanta, and every newspaper man in Georgia is invited to stop at Snook's exhibit and carry away one of these souvenirs.

How many people know that Atlanta has a publisher of musical compositions? Charles Astin is his name, and he not only publishes music, but the music is of his own composition. Mr. Astin's latest composition is "The Farmers' Alliance Grand March." Professor W. C. Rehm, the well-known teacher and composer, arranged it for him, and Professor Marston and his band will play it the first thing at the exposition. Mr. Astin is a young man who is struggling hard to win success in his line, and he deserves it. He will have this grand in arch on sale at the exposition.

In the first place, I was called into print by the false reports circulated over this city that I had withheld a settlement with the estate of my late deputy, C. C. Greene. I refer you to the arbitrators' decision on that matter, signed by H. L. Culberson, T. P. Westmoreland and Judge John L. Hopkins. The whole matter was covered therein, and I was vindicated.

The next move was to condemn my administration, of the office of sheriff and especially the jail, by an anonymous writer, signing himself "Fulton County." The author no doubt was acting under the advice and direction of the "Morrow" ticket. My friends are satisfied with my statement of that matter, coupled as it was with a full and close exposition of the matter by Judge John L. Hopkins, who stated that his article was intended to apply to jails, generally, over the state, and not expectable.

city at night. I have been an invalid since my sixteenth year, until five months ago, I began a use of Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. Now at the age of twenty-three I feel myself, for the first time in my life, a man filled with health and ambition. I want you to publish this, although I do not sign my true name.—James Smith, Lexington, Ky.

[Communicated.] VOTE FOR JIM MORROW. The Sheriff's Office of Fulton County

Needs Good Men.
To the Voters of Fulton County: The attention of the old ticket has been called to the damning report of the grand jury, concerning their man-agement of the jail. This they have dodged by referring to Judge Hopkins's letter as general, though the charge of the grand jury was specific. The report of the grand jury stands unanswered and unanswerable. Of 35 cents per diem furnished to feed prisoners, they only get the benefit of 10 cents, while 25 cents goes to "the combine." The same grand jury condemns their food, limited as it was, as "half oked." George W. Lewis was hired to quit Hoyle when called on to perform the work, for which he was drawing Hoyle's money, so as to pose as a "discharged workman," when in fact, he was a derelict employe. He boasted that he was to get $5,000 a year for his job. The family of the late Sheriff Green indignantly repudiated the attempt of the old ticket to shove exposition of the matter by Judge John L. Hopkins, who stated that his article was intended to apply to jails, generally, over the state, and not especially Fulton county jail. The lase offert now, and the 'most unkindest cut of all,' is for the son of our respected and beloved deputy, C. C. Greene, to state to this inteligent peeple that I have tried to bring this good name into the scramble for office. Heaven forbid. Did I not state that he was a good, true land humane officer? Everything I said was to defend his good name, and I reiterate all I said then. I only write this that the truth may be known; that Judge C. C. Greene was my deputy and the jailor at the time the committee from the grand jury made its report, so often mentioned by my opponents; that he now owns one-fourth interest in the new jail that we built to remedy the over-crowded condition of the same, and the building of that jail annex was done at our expense during his life time, to remedy the very evil complained of by the same grand jury. To prove to the public that my first statement was correct, I invite those who may wish, to call at the clerk's office and examine the "records, book X, page 733, before casting their votes. With this article I am done. What I have said I have been forced to say, and always in the most respectful terms. Vituperation and slander will not win this fight, and I am glad to say that from our side we have been free from it. I never expect to ride into position by false statements, cursing and abuse.

"Odd Sale" of Tea, Dinner & Toilet Sets

About three weeks ago we inaugurated what we called an "Odd Sale;" that is a sale for selling off all of our odd pieces of China, Dinner, Tea and Bedroom Sets, and general brica-brac. We had a great many odd pieces and we have been selling them at a nominal price.

This Sale will Continue One Week Longe During that time we will offer odd pieces at especially low prices, and if there is anything you want in the way of Tea, Dinner and Toilet Sets, you can get it at our store for almost a Sets, you can get it at our store for almost a song.

Next week our new goods will be coming into the market and we must clear the way for them. We have a considerable amount of odd pieces of China, Crockery and Glassware on hand, as well as a great many odd pieces in other lines. In fact, if you want any odd pieces in the line we carry, you can get it this week at a greatly reduced price. These goods that we are selling are strictly first-class. It is not old stock, because we carry none of that. In transportation frequently a dish or a bowl, a pitcher or some part of a set is broken, which renders it almost impossible for us to realize full price upon it. Recollect our "Odds."

They are strictly first-class, both in design and finish. The sale will continue only one week longer. Call in tomorrow morning at 45 Peachtree street and see us.

"Standing with reluctant feet Where the brook and river meet."

They are urged forward by nature's stern decree to assume the powers and duties of manhood and womanhood. And yet this is the most critical point in the voyage of human life. Then it is that the danger of a shattered nervous system reaches its crisis and ignorance selzes its opportunity to plant the seed of future ill-health and misery. Then it is the quack secures his victim and his purse. This is the occasion when the hand of experience should take the hand of inexperience and guide its feet to the solid rock upon the farther shore. At the approach of puberty and during the first years of this new order of being, there are weakening tendencies that should be guarded against. A medicine that has the power to strengthen the various parts of the body and to regulate and give control to its various functions is essential at frequent intervals. Such a medicine has the eminent Dr. John Bull, of Louisville, Ky., given to the world. It is known as Dr. Bull'a Sarsaparilla. Don't fall into the hands of quacks, but demand this remedy of your druggist. Take no other. It is exactly what is needed and will carry you safely through to strength and robust health.

THE GENERAL COUNCIL MEETS IN SPECIAL SESSION,

And Refuses to Buy a Lot for a New Statio House-Fixing for the Waterworks Election-The City's Garbage.

The general council convened in special session yesterday afternoon.

To the roll call Mr. Howell, Mr. Hass, Mr. Middlebrooks, Mr. Woodward and Mr. Reinhard, of the board of alderman, and Hr. Hirsch Mr. Kinyon, Mr. Meador, Mr. McBride, Mr. Hendrix, Mr. Kontz, Mr. Lambert and Mr.

Inman, of the council, responded.

The report of the special committee on the purchase of a lot for a new police station was

"I move," said Mr. Meador, "that we postpone this matter until the next regular meet-

"As a substitute for that," said Mr. Reinhardt, "I move that we postpone it indefinitely, and that the entire qu the committee. That lot is too low on Ivy street, near Edgewood avenue, and $20,000 is too much. Then, too, the people in that neighborhood object to the police station." "As a substitute for everything," said Mr. Hirsch, "I move that we disagree to the report of the committee and refuse to buy the

Mr. Hendrix related the great trouble the special committee had had in securing a lot nd advocated the trade.

"Still," said he, "I don't want to force this building on any one who don't want it. But to postpone at all is simply to kill it alto-

A letter from Mr. Hulsey, the junior mem ber from the third ward, was read. Mr. Hulsey regretted his inability to be present, and opposed the purchase of the lot contemplated. "I am not familiar with the location of the proposed lot," said Mr. McBride. "But Major Toon offers me one on the corner of Courtland avenue and Gilmer street for $14,000, and if it s correctly represented it is a good place."

Mr. Lambert favored the purchase suggested by Mr. McBride, and spoke of a lot adjoining which could be bought cheap. "So, you see," he said, "the two lots would cost less than the one the committee recom-

Mr. Hirsch's motion killing the report of the committee was adopted.

Mr. Inman presented a resolution taking $300 away from the $2,500 given the police de partment for policing the exposition, and ap-propriating it to the fire department service for the exposition.

It was adopted.
"I have a resolution," said Mr. Kontz, "appropriating $25 for the decoration of the public buildings on the opening day of the expo-

Mr. Reinhardt opposed it. "I'll give $2 out of my own pocket," said

Mr. Hendrix.
"I won't," said Mr. Reinhardt, "we have got no business doing that."

The council adopted the resolution but the board of alderman killed it. Fixing for the Election.

The waterworks committee, the water board and the citizens' committee on the waterworks met in the mayor's office yesterday morning.

There was a full attendance. Mayor Glenn explained that the meeting had been called for the purpose of inducing the members of the committee to turn out on election day and work for the adoption of the waterworks bonds. Every one present promised to work for the bonds.

The City's Garbage. The special committee on the disposition of the city's garbage met yesterday in Mr. Mc-

Several propositions were made the commit-tee to dispose of the garbage. One by inciner-ation was the favorite, but the committee could not arrive at a conclusion, and action was postponed.

The Perils of Youth. How few have any material sympathy for youth at that period when "Standing with reluctant feet Where the brook and river meet." They are urged forward by nature's stern decree to assume the powers and duties of manhood and womanhood. And yet this is the most critical point in the voyage of human life. Then it is that the danger of a shattered nervous system reaches its crisis and ignorance class is convertent to place the defent ous system reaches its crisis and ignorance selzes its opportunity to plant the seed of future ill-health and misery. Then it is the quack secures his victim and his purse. This is the occasion when the hand of experience should take the hand of inexperience and guide its feet to the solid rock upon the farther shore. At the approach of puberty and during the first years of this new order of being, there are weakening tendencies that should be guarded against. A medicine that has the power to strengthen the various parts of the body and to regulate and give control to its various functions is essential at frequent intervals. Such a medicine has the eminent Dr. John Bull. of Louisville, Ky., given to the world. It is known as Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. Don't fall into the hands of quacks, but deworld. DEMANDS

That only honest and reliable medicines should be placed upon the market. It cannot, therefore, be stated too emphatically, nor repeated too often, that all who are in need of a genuine Blood-purifier should be sure and ask for

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla. Your life, or that of some one near and dear to you, may depend on the use of this well-approved remedy in preference to any other preparation of similar name. It is compounded of Honduras sarsaparilla (the variety most rich in curative properties), stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, and the lodides. The process of manufacture is original, skilful, scrupulously clean, and such as to secure the very best medicinal qualities of each ingredient. This medicine is not bolled nor heated, and is, therefore, not a decoction; but it is a compound extract, obtained by a method exclusively our own, of the best and most powerful alteratives, tonics, and diureties known to pharmacy. For the last forty years, Ayer's has been the standard blood-purifier of the world—no other approaching it in popular confidence or universal demand. Its formconnaence or universal demand. Its formula is approved by the leading physicians and druggists. Being pure and highly concentrated, it is the most economical of any possible blood medicine. Every purchaser of Sarsaparilla should insist upon having this preparation and see that each bottle bears the well-known name of

J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

In every quarter of the globe Ayer's Sar, saparilla is proved to be the best remedy for all diseases of the blood. Lowell druggists unite in testifying to the superior excellence of this medicine and to its great popularity in the city of its manufacture.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS.

CUT IN EASTERN PASSENGER RATES FROM ST. LOUIS TO THE EAST.

Railroad Personals and Topics of General Interest Concerning Railroad Matters in Every Section. Mr. Charles H. Kight, assistant general passenger agent of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, has an elegant suit of rooms on the sixth floor of the Gould building on Decatur street. He represents a fine system and naturally fles high as a good "Kight" should

Mr. B. F. Blake, traveling freight agent of the Burlington route, spent yesterday in Atlanta, en route to Nashville, which is his headquarters. Mr. Blake has been to Florida looking after his orange grove. He was at one time a reporter for The Constitution.

Twenty-one sleepers filled with capitalists from Boston, Philadelphia and England ar-rived in Chattanooga yesterday via the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia from the east. They will attend Kensington land sale and efforts are being made to get them to visit Atlanta during the exposition.

The Goober train from Griffin, on the Cen-tral railroad came in yesterday with bright, new and comfortable coaches, much to the de-light of the passengers who patronize this pop-ular train. Conductor S. C. Daniel had a happy look upon his face, and Baggage Mas-ter Wallace Puckett was beaming with smiles. Engineer McAlpan was at the throttle, and was also glad of the new equipment. General Superintendent Gabbett will receive the hearty thanks of his patrons for this new and highly appreciated improvement in the service between Atlanta and Griffin.

The Indianapolis Car and Manufacturing Company has been placed in the hands of a receiver. It is complained that the company is insolvent, having debts amounting to $650,000, the assests being but $600,000. Colonel Charles Miller, president of the company, thinks the receiver will be able to continue the business, and probably in time turn it over to the stockholders clear of indebtedness.

There is a sensation in railroad circles in Chattanooga. The Chattanooga News says that about a month ago the Cincinnati Southern railroad authorities notified the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus railroad that they would not handle any freight for them after the 11th. The merchants shipping goods over the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus will be

A further cut in passenger rates from St. Louis to eastern points has been made, making tickets to Philadelphia, $16; Boston, $20; Washington and Baltimore, $14; Columbus, $6; Pittsburg, $18, and Harper's Ferry, $14. The threatened passenger rate war in St.

Louis has again been postponed, the Chicago lines finding it would be useless to put on a round trip rate to Chicago unless corresponding reduction could be obtained from the lines running east from Chicago.

The twenty-seventh annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will be held in Pittsburg on the

A decision was filed in the United States effeuit court at Boston in the case of the Pullman Palace Car Company againt the Boston and Albany railroad and others, for infringement of patent granted in 1889 to George M. Pullman for a new and useful improvement in Pullman for a new and useful improvement in patents in the case of the pullman for a new and useful improvement in patents. solid vestibule connections between railroad cars. The decision is in favor of the complainant, and is substantially a verdict against the Wagner company. The opinion of Judge Colt declares Pullman to be the inventor of the vestibules, that the invention was patentially and their the potential in friends by deable, and that the patent is infringed by defendant in four respects.

The Railway News says: "The St. Louis cast—and rate war has been stifled. Central traffic and trunk lines absolutely refused to pro rate on the cut rates, and the Big Four refused to follow any further Ohlo and Mississippi reductions. Roads north and south of rused to follow any further Ohio and Mississippi reductions. Roads north and south of the Ohio and Mississippi went back to tariff, and, as there was nothing else left to fight, the Ohio and Mississippi agreed immediately to advance to tariff all rates to points east of Cincinnati, and on October 19th all rates between St. Louis and Cincinnati. This action prevents what might easily have been a disastrous rate war involving all central traffic and trunk lines.

The strike on the Houston and Texas railroad, caused by the employment of negro switchmen, is off, the committee from the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen having refused to make the color line an issue. The San Antonia and Arkansas road is at a complete standstill as far as the movement of the san areas of the san are freight trains is concerned.

A prominent railroad official says: "I note in your issue of the 9th instant, that your correspondent at Americus alludes to there being a coal famine at Americus, owing to a freight blockade on the Columbus and Western dia coal famine at Americus, owing to a freight blockade on the Columbus and Western division of the Central. The coal held back by us was nearly, if not all, consigned to the Savanuah, Americus and Montgomery road at Americus—they, having, at the time, a large number of our cars loaded with coal which they had failed to discharge—some of them having been in their possession many weeks; hence this coal en route was stopped at Columbus until such time as the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery road was in a position to receive and discharge the same, we not desiring to block our own yard at Americus with it. There is no blockade, nor has there been any, either on the Columbus and Western, or any other division of the Central system, both cotton and freight being handled with greater promptness and expedition than at any previous time in the company's history.

On a Pedestal. From The Chicago Lumber Trade Journal,

From The Chicago Lumber Trade Journal,

There is a wonderful lithograph on our office wall. It is a picture of the resources of the south. In the center of a group of small pictures is a map of the southeastern states. It shows the network of railroads that bind that great country together, the lines of steel that fasten the snow-capped mountain peaks to the blue and yellow rivers which roll down the populous valleys. It shows metropolitan places and villages, and cities and towns, and it shows in heavy black lines the great East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway system. Then, on the left-hand side of the map, is a full-length portrait of B. W. Wrenn, the general passenger and ticket agent of the road, standing on a pedestal of Tennessee granite. Mr. Wrenn is showing the world the "new Scuth." The world stands down at his feet, down on a level with the beautiful granite pedestal. There they are, Kaffir and Hindoo, Jew and Gentile, rich and poor, red and yellow, white and black, and as Mr. Wrenn talks a beautiful vision runs round the scene. There is a lower river steamboat and the measured trot of the deckhands and the escaping steam, and the rock and tr mble of the departing boat when the gangway is craned in. Over on the hill. is a planter's house peeping through the green trees and a sloping field of nodding tobacco plants dropping out of sight toward sundown. Farther inland is a rice field, where its long severe rows and its dykes and ditches and its unrelieved level. Then a cotton field, with baskets full of the white fluff, and old aunties and little pickaninies and the flash of red bandanas, and the glean of white teeth in the coal black countenances. There, as the vision opens, is a sugar plantation just in harvest, with the dump carts rolling over. These yellow cars come up out of the valley of the willey of the reason of the title and her ush of a black horse and the boarse cry of a swearing rider; and next and most, of Bromson Howard's heautiful play where both sides triumph. Eack of all there of factories and the whirr of machinery, and the lumberman distinctly hears the swash of falling trees, and sees the green and needle-like leaves of the many pines rustling in the soft sunlight. Great is the country that is knit together ly the Birchall's Mistakes.

From The Toronto World.

Little things make all the difference. Thus, if Birchall had not overlooked the cigar case the identity of Benwell would never have been established. Also, if he had not got "turned round" in the swamp he would not have walked west to Eastwood when he thought he was going east to Gobles's Station, from which the swamp is only a mile and a half distant. If he had got on at Gobles's he would have eccaped identification that afternoon by Miss Smith at the other Eastwood witnesses, and the jary might possibly have felt more doubt of his guilt. Moral: Don't get turned round.

Birchall should now write a true story of the case, if he can, copyright it, and have the book sold for his guilt, it and have the book From The Toronto World.

case, if he can, copyright it, and have the book sold for his widow's benefit. He need not tell us how far Mrs. Bircha'l was awars of his wickedness, but he might disclose exactly what took place when they went up to Princeton to identify the body—where he drove to and what he did. Everything else is known.

Everything else is known.

It seldom happens that a trial, so wholly dependent on circumstantial evidence as was the notorious case just closed, issues in a verdict with which the public press is, we think we may say, in perfect accord. It is by no means an unimportant item in connection with the Birchail case that the verdict should have been thus agreed in by public men who have followed the case line. that the verticet should have been thus agreed in by public men who have followed the case, line by line, weighing the evidence of each witness with impartial infind and seeking only to ascertain the truth. It is safe to say that there has seldom been a case in which the bench, bar, press, and public opinion have presented so absolute an agree-ment.

THE STOCK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK. October 13.—The stock market today was somewhat of a surprise on account of its steadiness and strong undertone, in view of the showing of the bank statement of Saturday, and with the very moderate volume of business; in only two or three stocks were there material changes for the day. Brokers report an increase in invest? ment and buying, and the purchase of stocks by old traders, who believe that now is their opportunity to pick stocks at a bargain, are now a large proportion of the buying. There were rumors that the market would be attacked today, and some-thing of the kind did occur in Sugar Refineries, North American, Northern Pacific and Louisville and Nashville. In none of these, with the single exception of Sugar Refineries, was there any material final decline for the day. Grangers also withstood considerable hammering, considering the limited market, with the same insignificant resuits. The opening was hesitating, and weakness in singles encouraged the putting out of further short lines in the regular list, but very pronounced strength in Lackawanna supported the market.

Final dealings saw an improvement in the general market, but no movement of importance resulted, and the market closed dull but firm at insignificant changes, as a rule. Lackawanna nows a gain of 2½ c for the day, while Sugar is down 1c, having recovered a portion of its early losses. Sales, 162,000 listed, and 42,000 unlisted.

NEW YORK, October 13—[Special]—The offerings of cotton from the south this morning in Liverpool caused a sharp break in the arrival market, and brought solling orders from there to sell. Under this pressure our market eased 627 points. Weather predictions posted showed that rain would fall in the Mississippi valley this afternoon, and the market rallied to case away towards the close, which was steady at a shade over the lowest of the day. Receipts at the ports 64,000 bales and the day. Receipts at the ports 64,000 bales and of the day. Receipts at the ports 64,000 bales and declining markets at the south are not features to declining markets at the south are not features to encourage buying unless crop accounts become unfavorable, and with no opposition from holders spinners appear likely to obtain their supplies at reasonable rates. The lack of speculation in this country is an element of weakness in the market that is difficult to estimate, while the crop prospects remain unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions. CHICAGO, October 13—Wheat—Only moderate speculative trading today and fluctuations confined within moderate limits. Prices were ad-fined within moderate limits. Frees were advanced 1½c with slight fluctuations, and the closing was about Ic higher. Foreign markets were reported strong and higher.

Corn—Fair trading, mostly in May, very little being done in the other futures. The feeling developed was comparatively steady. The bulk of the trading was local, and the market closed slightly better.

slightly better. Oats-Only a moderate business. There was not many orders to buy, and they were early filled up by a prominent operator who is long. Mess pork—Trading only moderate. The opening sales were made at slightly higher prices, but a reaction soon followed, and the close was quiet and rather weak. Lard-Quiet and rather dull. Early sales were at 24c advance, but the improvement was quickly lost, and the market ruled quiet to the close. Short ribs-A fairly active trade.

NOTICE by the Mayor and General Council of the City of Atlanta of the holding of

WHEREAS, THE MAYOR AND GENERAL Council of the city of Atlanta desire to issue two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) of bonds of said city, for the purpose of increasing the water supply of said city, and the assent of the qualified voters of said city being necessary

the qualined voters of hereto:

Therefore, Be it ordained by the mayor and general council aforesaid, that in accordance with the constitution and laws of said state, and in pursuance of the amendment to the charter of said city authorizing the issue of said bonds, an election shall be held on the 14th day of October, 1830, to authorizing the issue of said bonds, an election shall be held on the 14th day of October, 1890, to determine the question whether said water bonds shall be issued by said city, and that notice to the people (qualified voters of said city) be published in The Atlanta Constitution, the newspaper in which the sheriff's advertisements for said county are published, for the space of thirty days next preceding the day of said election, as provided by law, said bonds to bear interest at the rate of four (4) per centum per annum, and to run not exceeding thirty years from the date thereof, the interest to be paid semi-annually, on the first days of January and July of each year, and the principals of said bonds to be fully paid off within thirty years of the date of the issuance thereor.

If the issue of said water bonds is voted by the requisite two-thirds of the qualified voters of said city, then, and before the proposed debt is incurred, an ordinance or ordinances shall be passed providing for the sale and issue thereof, and making provision at the same time for the assessment and collection of the annual taxes sufficient in amount to pay the principal and interest of said debt within thirty years from the date of incurring said indebtedness.

But this shall not operate to increase the annual taxes on real estate or personal property beyond the charter rate of one and one-half (1½) per cent per annum.

At said election the voters shall have printed or the charter rate of one and one-man (172) per comper annum.

At said election the voters shall have printed or written on their ballots, "For Water Bonds" or "Against Water Bonds."

Said election shall be held as funnicipal elections in this city are held, and conducted in like manner, and in accordance with Sections 50s I to 50s M inclusive, of the Code of the state of Georgia.

Approved September 5, 1890.

JOHN T. GLENN, Mayor.

I certify that the foregoing preamble and ordinance were adopted by the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta on September 1, 1890, and concurred in by the aldermanic board of said city on September 4, 1800, and approved by the mayor of said city September 5, 1890.

This September 5, 1890.

A. P. WOODWARD, City Clerk.

To the Voters of the City of Atlanta

Notice is hereby given of an Ordinance to declare the election on the proposed issue of $250,000 of 4 per cent bonds to be expended in the extension of the water supply of the City of At-Innta, open to all qualified voters living in the City of Atlanta without reference to registration
